

Sprint 2 Report

2/21/16

IDEal Team: Chris Kyle, Greg Biles, David Sun, Max Kerscher-Santelli, Kevin McCotter, Cole Lampert

Things to stop doing:

- Group members are working independently more frequently than not, which is detrimental to the progress of certain objectives. Independently, group members are making progress towards understanding their tasks but are completing less in terms of actual functional results.

Things to start doing:

- In conjunction with the above, we need to begin working together more frequently, both as a group and in task-specific groups. This will help us code more efficiently and in a more directed manner.
- We need to work more quickly to ensure that all core aspects of the program are executed in time to ensure completion on schedule. Additionally, more expedient work now will leave time for additional features to be implemented.
- More vigilantly keeping codebases up to day with github and pushing new code to master as necessary.

Things to keep doing:

- We will continue researching and handling small issues as they occur.
- We still communicate well, members are active on Slack and communicate privately as needed.

Work completed:

- Code editor is completely set up.
- Realtime collaboration was implemented and should be functional.
- Website and domain were fully set up on Amazon EC2 and web2py was installed on it.

Work not completed:

- We were not able to implement file-saving to server or to Google Drive.
- Sign-in through Google is still a work in progress but is nearing completion.
- Website is not yet HTTPS certified.
- Hangouts/chat has not been started.
